

InfoStreet software helps unite Continental FCU offices

TARZANA, Calif. (6/29/07)--InfoStreet Inc., creator of the information technology (IT) software suite StreetSmart, is offering employers web-based applications aimed at improving workflow and employee efficiency, regardless of location.

With the StreetSmart suite, employers can offer work-from-home incentives to employees to help offset the high price of commuting. With these applications, employees can work together with complete access to their StreetSmart office applications from any location using the Internet.

"StreetSmart has been a godsend for us," said Don Nora, chief information officer for Continental FCU in El Segundo. "It has allowed me to unite our offices from coast to coast in real-time and has improved our collaboration and communication tenfold."

StreetSmart can also replace an organization's technology burden by using an always-up-to-date Software-as-a-Service. This eliminates the need for regular software updates and expensive license renewals, and can reduce the need for top-dollar IT management.
