that makes group calls as easy as 1-2-3, even while on the go. With virtual meetings on the rise, conference calling has become a high-demand service with premium fees attached. Now, with StreetSmart Meeting, conference calls can take place for free anytime, anywhere. The service also offers permanent conference call numbers so people can start conferences without having to be next to a computer to schedule the call. This feature allows for impromptu calls with colleagues without the hassle of setting up a specific event just to have a group call.

To make scheduling and inviting colleagues and friends or family to virtual meetings a seamless process, StreetSmart Meeting also includes a calendar tool that will generate invites and also offer reminders for these important group calls. Calls are secure and, for added convenience, calls may be recorded and stored for playback for up to 90 days) - all at no charge.

"InfoStreet has dedicated itself to small business success by providing world-class software solutions at unheard of levels of affordability," said Siamak Farah, founder and CEO of InfoStreet Inc. "StreetSmart Meeting was a natural extension for us, allowing us to extend our offering, in this case a totally free consumer and small business service, to a wider market, and by so doing, educate a new group of
