One of the biggest obstacles to overcome in the software-as-a-service world is the misconception that outsourcing hardware and services means the IT department is walking on thin ice. As a result the first instinct for those involved in IT is to dismiss the idea in self-preservation. But the truth of the matter is that Software-as-a-Service, when properly matched with your company, will give the IT team more time to do more meaningful tasks that will add more value to your company and be more rewarding for them as well.

Infostreet.com is a company that specializes in providing businesses of all sizes a single suite of services to replace things like Email, Tasks Management, Calendaring, File Sharing, CRM, etc. Unlike other companies in this space they have differentiated themselves in two key ways:

1. All services are modular (can be turned on/off as needed) and all communicate with each other.
2. All accounts come bundled with an extensive administrative tool set. IT Professionals will be in heaven when they open up the control panel and see the dept of configuration and customizable options. From user permissions and access controls to individual application settings, it's all there and all administered by the admin.

So if it's just as extensive, how is it a benefit? The answer is easy, Speed & Scalability. Your admin can just do things faster and can delegate various admin tasks more easily.

For example if your admin needs to add a new user or modify an existing user, it's done in real-time with just a few clicks. Or if your organization is broken up into various functional units such as Finance, Marketing, Sales, Operations, maybe each department lead has admin rights to perform these tasks to just their group. Either way is fine and either way can be accomplished with Infostreet.com

No longer does your IT team need to spend countless hours performing low priority "grunt" work when they could be working on larger projects that have a greater positive impact on the business.
